Answers the World Doesn't Care to Know

A basic apologetic against the religion of evolution and for the truth of creation, this short booklet has just enough information to answer the stated questions, as well as provide avenues of further research.

Unfortunately, when confronted with the material, most atheists/post-modernists simply carry on undaunted in their unbelief as it is more convenient than facing up to reality.

The only downside is use of corrupted modern bible versions.

I) But Doesn't Evolution Explain Our Existence? (pp. 6-24)

A 'simple' bacterium has ~2 500-page books of DNA information; a man 1,000. The '97%' human-chimp DNA similarity is inferred from DNA hybridization.

DNA is expected to be similar across life for the food chain to exist. Also, if it were not, then information for life would be expected to come from somewhere else.

Pharyngeal arches develop into the thyroid and parathyroid glands, and the middle ear canal.

The appendix contains lymph tissue which guards against bad bacteria entering the intestines. The tonsils perform a similar function at the front of the alimentary canal.

II) How Did Different 'Races' Arise? (p. 25-40)

‘Melanin’ consists of dark brown eumelanin and redder pheomelanin.

The Inuit are brown, yet live at a high latitude, indicating that the genes for light-skin have been lost to them.

Pygmies may suffer from genetic discrimination of shorter humans and so they branched off and intermarried.

Africans are thought to be largely Hamitic because of Cush and Ethiopia, but God’s curse was actually on Canaan.

III) Cain’s Wife – Who Could She Have Been? (pp. 41-44)

IV) Does God Exist? (pp. 45-64)

After his AD 303 edict, Diocletian thought he had burnt every Bible.

Archaeologist Sir William Ramsay sought to disprove the NT but became a Christian.

If the earth were eternal, all radioactive elements would have decayed and no work would be possible.
