

ABRA-KADABBA

Every story must have a beginning and the origin of man is no different. The trouble is there isn't a natural one, so out of men's minds grew a 'phylogenetic tree' to connect all life. First a mythical cell<sup>1</sup> arose in murky water via random chemistry. From this 'Nature' then created brand new cells which branched into bacteria, plants, and animals. Within the family<sup>2</sup> hominidae, man's upward climb was thought to begin in Asia<sup>3</sup> with eosimias. Of earth's supposed 4.6Ga<sup>4</sup> history, it took ~4.56Ga (~99% of evolution's history) to build this <300 grm tiny animal.

Over 40Ma (~1% of history) evolution morphed it into men, making apes, chimps and orangutans on the side. From Charles Darwin himself the hard evidence for evolutionary 'science' lives and dies with bones-no fossils recording the slow change between forms is fatal:

"Why does not every collection of fossil remains afford plain evidence of the gradation and mutation of all forms of life? We meet with no such evidence, and this is the most obvious and forcible of the many objections which may be urged against my theory."<sup>5</sup>

The lack of fossils is a problem, even after 150 years of palaeontologists scouring the planet with unlimited financial backing from groups like the Rockefeller Foundation. Each find, however minute, must be magnified or enhanced 'to the max'.

Left is what an artist conjured up for eosimias. This had to do till May '09

19, 2009 when 95% of a 58cm fossil found back in 1983, Germany, was trumpeted as the missing link<sup>6</sup>. In two days claims for 'Ida' (Darwinius masillae) were denounced by Dr Chris Beard<sup>7</sup>. Within months hype over the 'eight wonder of the world' was over-she wasn't a link. When 'facts' of missing links are foisted on the public it is wise to ask, "what's the evidence?"<sup>8</sup>

The latest hoped-for link is Purgatorius<sup>9</sup> identified only by ankle bones, and conveniently pushed back 65Ma when dinosaurs supposedly went extinct. It is a 37 gram quasi-rodent!

Unfortunately, from eosimias c40Ma till c7Ma<sup>10</sup> there is a large gap in the 'fossil record' of human evolution. The story picks up again with Sahelanthropus tchadensis, a chimp-sized creature discovered 2001-2 in Chad, thought to live across the African Sahel region (15° N of the equator). It was 'dated' using bones of other nearby animals. The only fossils are a cranium, some teeth and jaw pieces [left].<sup>11</sup>

A competitor for 'our early ancestor' is another chimp-sized animal, Ororin tugenensis, said to be 6Ma. A molar was found 1974 in the Tugen Hills of Kenya. A finger and 11 bones from four other creatures, across four sites km's apart were dug up 26 years later! The 'giveaway' it walked on two legs (bipedalism) is meant to be the femur (thigh-bone) groove [left-fossil 'A']. Other bones imply it lived in trees. Evolutionists argue the femur is closer to man than australopithecines are ('Lucy'). Dumping Lucy in favour of Ororin couldn't be risked though due to 40 years of public advertising it as the icon of evolution. It is a dead end in the 'evolutionary pathway'.

In July 12, 2001, Nature reported the earliest hominid had been found in Ethiopia-the 5.6Myr-old Ardipithecus ramidus kadabba [!]. Fossils were collected over five years and four locations spread over a 15km arc! [left] Teeth, jaw, arm, collar and hand bones. A single toe [left-yellow] was also found-shown six times to seem like more bones. The toe is thought to be c400k years younger than the others<sup>12</sup> and was found 18km away! Since it was curved, kadabba is bipedal, based on the teeth it is a different subspecies, and by size small as a chimp. These are the 'facts' of evolution.

Earlier in 1994, Ardipithecus ramidus was found but it took 15 years for 'Ardi' to be formally accepted. It was ~1Myr's younger than kadabba but also had issues: The 3 broken thigh bones were found 270m from the 11 teeth, and the crushed skull 550m in the other direction<sup>13</sup>. How they could be matched together is a mystery:

"Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I cannot; for it is sealed." Isaiah 29.11d-h

<sup>1</sup>Last Universal Common Ancestor. Given the impossibility of even the simplest cell 'evolving' (it would need at last 113 'essential' genes like Streptococcus pneumoniae Rx-1), scientist's are opening the door to the idea it was planted by aliens<sup>1</sup> ('directed panspermia'). ## HOPE IN HABILIS

The search moved on from Ardipithecus, to Australopithecus anamensis<sup>14</sup>. In 1965, a single arm bone knob [right-red] was discovered at Kanapoi, 120km SW of Lake Turkana/Rudolf in Kenya. After various fakes like Piltdown (1912-1953) [human skull+orangutan jaw with filed teeth] and Nebraska Man (1922-1927) [one pig's tooth], evolutionists were reluctant to announce a 'missing link' based on one bone. Scratching around the same site, 30 years later they found a complete lower jaw, broken shin and left forearm bones. In 1995, this small ape-like tree-climber was declared a new species and 'dated' 4Ma-man's oldest potential ancestor.

In 1925, Anatomy Professor Raymond Dart reported his recent find of a 3-year old's skull and endocast<sup>15</sup> in a South African mine. He named it Australopithecus africanus. The location of the 'big hole' (foramen magnum) at the skull base through which the spinal column enters was towards the centre, like man. This was taken to mean the ape-creature walked upright. The error of this logic-leg is in all apes, the foramen moves backwards as it grows, unlike man<sup>16</sup>. Dart's find was rejected by evolutionists for twenty years as (i) it contradicted the dogma big brains 'evolved' before walking, (ii) his report was rushed out in six weeks from isolated South Africa, (iii) evolutionists were already convinced the first humans evolved in Asia, not Africa!<sup>17</sup> Other fossils were found, in 1939 a bigger type of ape (named 'robustus', compared to small 'gracile' apes) and in Tanzania, 1959, 'Nutcracker Man' a.k.a 'Dear Boy', a.k.a 'Zinj' (short for Zinj/Paranthropus boisei)! This gorilla-brained animal had massive teeth, brow ridges and a skull crest [above-red].

At supposedly c2Ma, it overlaps with Homo, so has been sidelined an evolutionary wall. Perhaps the most famous 'ancestor' of man is Lucy, named after a Beatle's song playing on the camp's radio in Ethiopia, 1974. This genus is thought to be c4Ma and despite being coined Australopithecus afarensis, fossils were found in east Africa. The first find [right] was 23% of a skeleton (by bone count) and it had no feet to tell whether it walked upright. Artists made their image human-like on purpose [left]:

John Gurche (sculptor): "If you want the eyes to be the window to the soul, you have to make them with some depth"<sup>18</sup>.

A bald deception is primates don't have eye-whites (sclerae)-only humans do. Much scientific evidence exists Lucy did not walk upright and so was not ancestral to man<sup>19</sup>. -Computerized Axial Tomography<sup>20</sup> shows the vestibular system (organ of balance in the ear) was different than in humans.

-Wrist's had a locking mechanism to enable knuckle-walking. -The inward femur-to-knee angle (valgus) in Lucy was 15° but is only 9° in humans<sup>21</sup>. -Limb bones were suited for living in trees rather than plains.

-Toes and fingers were curved for grasping, not straight like Homo. A 'walking' Lucy rests on interpretation of the Laetoli footprints (see p. IV) which in turn rest on radiometric (K-Ar) dating of the volcanic ash they are encased in. These methods make many fatal flaws in assumptions<sup>22</sup>. -Computer statistical analysis of Australopithecus, people and ape bone groups was carried out by Evolutionary Professor Charles Oxnard. Results were plotted in a 3D 'morphometric' space. The Australopithecus were farther away from both the ape and people groups, not neatly inbetween. He concluded they did not walk upright and were not ancestral to humans.

In 1997, a new species Australopithecus garhi<sup>23</sup> was created as a hopeful link from Lucy towards Homo. Conclusion from a 39 trait [mainly tooth] study would be garhi is a mix of afarensis [29 shared] and africanus [9 shared] (with 1 of neither), not a new human ancestor.<sup>24</sup>

The oldest man (genus Homo) is said to be habilis/rudolfensis/'Handy Man', 'dated' c2Ma. Found 1972 at Koobi Fora, Kenya, the skull [left] was a 300-piece bone patchwork. Its (ear) bony labyrinth shows it was even less bi-pedal than australopithecus and study of six traits by Wood and Collard suggests it was an australopithecine<sup>25</sup>. It overlaps 'Lucy' in time, and as a mix of erectus and australopithecus fossils it has been labelled a 'taxonomic wastebin'<sup>1</sup><sup>26</sup>

<sup>14</sup>Latin/Greek 'binomial nomenclature' is common as it wows the masses and boosts egos. Usually the first word is what the discoverer(s) perceives the main characteristics of the creature are, the second location detail. E.g. Australopithecus [australo-: 'southern'; pithicus: 'ape'] anamensis [-ensis: from near a lake: 'Anam' in the Turkana language]. <sup>15</sup>A natural stone filling of the empty braincase. <sup>16</sup>Dr Duane Gish, Evolution: The Fossils Still Say No!, El Cajon, CA, Institute for Creation Research, 1995 (2006 ed.), p.278. <sup>17</sup>Steve Parker, ed. ## DIFFERENT FOLKS

Modern man's sub species, homo sapiens sapiens is thought to be the tip of the Hominidae family. Some are suggesting man is now finished with 'Darwinian evolution' and about to embark on a new age of 'transhumanism', including robo sapiens<sup>27</sup>. How convincing are the fossils of the genus Homo this Darwinian evolution ever occurred?

Homo erectus is meant to be 700ka to 1Ma. 'Java Man' was found by Eugene Dubois (a student of Ernst Haeckel) in 1891, based on a skull cap and one tooth! A year later and 15m away a thigh bone was found<sup>28</sup>. Another erectus, 'Peking Man', is said to be 500Ka-the main problem with him is all the bones vanished in 1941!

'Boxgrove', or Britain's oldest man (Homo heidelbergensis) is supposedly 500k years old and said to be ancestral to Homo neanderthalensis. One tibia (shin bone) was discovered in 1993 at a dig site in West Sussex, U.K. This compelling evidence was augmented in 1995-6 by two heavily worn front teeth (incisors) that were separated by metres of dirt and two years! The site had flint axes proving these men could build fine tools, just like modern humans.

In 1856, limestone miners in the Neandertal, Germany uncovered two grottoes. Inside were bones thought to be of a very ancient man. The skull cap had brow ridges, and femora (thigh bones) were curved outwards. A medical authority of the day, Dr Richard Virchow in just a year later stated the man had ridges from skull damage, bowlegs from rickets, and suffered arthritis!<sup>29</sup> Today these men are thought to be up to 200ka old. Early models [above-right] imagined them as dumb, ape-like brutes but modern CGI reconstructions [above-left] have them indistinguishable from humans. They also wore jewellery, played music on bone flutes and had burial customs.

What Say the Scientists? Most have been bludgeoned into believing evolution is proven beyond doubt. Textbooks, magazines, scientific journals, etc. all concur evolution is fact. On rare occasions 'experts' themselves have put out interesting words: *Dr Colin Patterson (1933-1998): "For over twenty years I had thought that I was working on evolution in some way...And then I woke up and I realised that all my life I had been duped into taking evolutionism as revealed truth in some way."<sup>30</sup>

*Dr Stephen J. Gould (1941-2002): "The extreme rarity of transitional forms in the fossil record persists as the trade secret of palaeontology."<sup>31</sup>

*Dr John Gribbin and Jeremy Cherfas: "...we think that the chimp is descended from man, that the common ancestor of the two was much more man-like than ape-like."<sup>32</sup> The faithful must cling to such fanciful tales as: a fish grew legs and walked out of the ocean; these amphibians shed gills and changed to reptiles; small mammals emerged from reptiles; dog-sized mammals then decided to walk back into the ocean and became whales! These first 'whales'<sup>33</sup> would turn into the 190T Blue whale, an ~8,000-fold weight increase!

The lustre of Darwinism and 'neo' [new]-Darwinism is fading with some scientists losing faith. As of 9th Feb 2015, 931 have signed a statement of skepticism key mechanisms alone (i.e. genetic mutation and natural selection) are capable of creating all life, including man<sup>34</sup>. Given the Gestapo-like tactics of firing Darwinian 'heretics'<sup>35</sup>, for every signatory many must be keeping quiet for fear of losing their livelihood. This chilling effect is an outcome of modern 'free scientific enquiry'.

The certainty evolutionists have comes from their religion. Perhaps your faith in evolution is being shaken? This can only be so if it is a religious belief, unfalsifiable by scientific testing. Those with faith in something other than Jesus' sayings are unstable and awaiting spiritual catastrophe: "And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand;"<sup>36</sup> A wise man on the other hand is one who decides to entrust his life to Jesus: "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock."<sup>37</sup> Today, you can choose to trust the rock, Jesus, for forgiveness of your sins:

III

Modern man's sub species, homo sapiens sapiens is thought to be the tip of the Hominidae family.

Some are suggesting man is now finished with 'Darwinian evolution' and about to embark on a new age of 'transhumanism', including robo sapiens<sup>27</sup>.

How convincing are the fossils of the genus Homo this Darwinian evolution ever occurred?

Homo erectus is meant to be 700ka to 1Ma. 'Java Man' was found by Eugene Dubois (a student of Ernst Haeckel) in 1891, based on a skull cap and one tooth!

A year later and 15m away a thigh bone was found<sup>28</sup>. Another erectus, 'Peking Man', is said to be 500Ka-the main problem with him is all the bones vanished in 1941!

Given the Gestapo-like tactics of firing Darwinian 'heretics'<sup>35</sup>, for every signatory many must be keeping quiet for fear of losing their livelihood. This chilling effect is an outcome of modern 'free scientific enquiry'.

The certainty evolutionists have comes from their religion. Perhaps your faith in evolution is being shaken? This can only be so if it is a religious belief, unfalsifiable by scientific testing. Those with faith in something other than Jesus' sayings are unstable and awaiting spiritual catastrophe: "And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand;"<sup>36</sup> A wise man on the other hand is one who decides to entrust his life to Jesus: "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock."<sup>37</sup> Today, you can choose to trust the rock, Jesus, for forgiveness of your sins:

"Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink." John 7.37c-f

ASCENT OF APE?

How can bones which don't speak be interpreted? A belief system is always used to filter 'the facts'. An alternative to the atheist's choice is the Biblical model:

(i) No 'deep' time: The universe had a fast creation in six days, and from genealogies is around six thousand years old:

"For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it...But from the beginning of the creation God made them male and female."<sup>38</sup>

'Billions of years' have been falsified by radio-carbon dating results e.g. dinosaur tissue (ceratopsian<sup>39</sup> horn [right]) 34ka<sup>40</sup>, diamonds 56ka<sup>41</sup>, coal 25ka and fossil wood [encased in sandstone] 34ka<sup>42</sup>. Without eons of time the 'geologic column' collapses and evolution dashes on the rocks with it.

(ii) Man made from dust and woman from man: Like evolution ultimately infers, man comes from dust. Woman however came from the bone of man, sharing his genes:

"And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man." Genesis 2.22

Obviously the only way a male-female ('dimorphic') species can survive is with at least one of each alive together. A test of specie-hood is whether interbreeding is possible. Under evolution, the original homo sapien that emerged c200k years ago<sup>43</sup> must have waited for a partner to also evolve in its lifetime, otherwise it would become extinct in the first generation! Creation of man was not a random process of trial-and-error and brute force of nature, rather, like machines in a high-tech factory with:

-A blueprint, from the mind of God. A design schematic has/will never arise at random.

-Raw materials from dust (e.g. H<sub>2</sub>O, carbon, nitrogen, calcium).

-Energy input, from the Son of God.

-Life, or a soul, from the Spirit of God. This is non-material and something intellectually honest atheists must deny exists. They themselves are become walking 'illusions', creating a faux soul to give life purpose.

(iii) Man a separate kind: As expected man cannot interbreed with monkeys, apes, orangutans or chimps. Nor could he have mated with australopithecines. Evolutionary origins of the human embryo [left-top] was dreamt up by fraudster Ernst Haeckel in 1868. Despite proven false that same year, the 'Biogenetic Law' is still being taught as science to this day!

(iv) No transitional forms: Whereas human evolution expects untold fossils buried over millions of years, only a truck tray-load exists<sup>44</sup>, of which a disputed few are claimed 'transitional'. The Bible predicts zero-no fossil is a link, simply because different kinds are unrelated! Any common bone or body design is due to reuse of a common plan, not an 'evolutionary' relation. The earliest plane and today's stealth fighter both have wings and a tail yet are not evolutionary 'cousins'. The missing ingredient there is 100+ years of human intelligence and design input.

(v) Man and 'ancestors' contemporaries: 'Lucy' and man's footprints could be found together as they lived at the same time. Opposite is such evidence-human stone prints found 1978 in Laetoli, Tanzania. The volcanic ash is 'dated' 3.6Ma, but evolutionary dogma can't handle humans this old, so they plonked human feet on Lucy's skeleton and got artists to paint a picture, even though fossil evidence now reveals its toes were curled.

(vi) No 'vestigial' forms: As time has passed evolutionary hopes of relic parts in humans have been deflated, e.g.: the appendix functions as a storehouse of beneficial gut bacteria; tonsils protect the upper respiratory tract; male nipples are stimulatory during reproduction; wisdom teeth are still useful (with other molars) in rural cultures to grind food; the human 'tail' bone (coccyx) is an attachment site for tendons, ligaments and muscles, also enables sitting comfortably; body hair and their muscles (arrectores pilorum) prevent heat loss by contracting ('goose bumps') and act as a built-in warning system of external dangers.

DESCENT OF MAN

Does it matter if man evolved from a common ape-ancestor, or was made in God's image?

Today there are ferocious attempts by evolutionists to divorce morality from the logical outworking of their religious belief. This has a three-fold basis:

(i) Any perceived 'racism' is deadly in a hyper-sensitive culture. Application of evolution has been sacrificed to keep the dogma 'politically correct' and palatable to the masses.

(ii) It allows them to steal moral standards from Christianity at the same time as trying to destroy it. They can 'have their cake and eat it too'.

"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away."<sup>45</sup>

Richard Dawkins (2000): "...I'm a passionate anti-Darwinian when it comes to morality..."

(iii) Any evil inspired by evolution, whether by individual or Government can be defended so the 'theory' acquires a teflon-coat.

(i) The eugenics movement was rooted in evolution. This was popular in the U.S. in the 1920s, then adopted and driven to its logical extreme in Germany. Earlier ideas had evolution in different parts of the world-negroes were in the lowest stage, Asians a little higher, and whites at the peak on this scale. Up to the early 20thC European 'scientists' visited Australia for 'living fossil samples'-the primitive form of Homo, aborigines. An easy way to harvest was simply shooting them. Today ~1,000 remains are in international museums.<sup>46</sup>

(ii) If man is a product of pure, blind evolutionary process there is no 'golden rule'-such a thing is only possible from a *super*natural being, God. 'Ethics classes' and other pseudo-religious psychology merely act as parasitic viruses on Bible truths.

William Provine (1994): "modern evolutionary biology tells us loud and clear...there is no ultimate foundation for ethics, no ultimate meaning to life, and no free will for humans."

(iii) Communism is a deadly political system with supernatural hatred for Christianity: Joseph Stalin's purges; Romanian prisons (cf. Pastor Richard Wurmbrand's torture), China's labour camps, and North Korea's horrors (#1 world Christian persecutor for thirteen years straight). This belief system is founded in part on atheism, which in turn is bound to its symbiote, evolution. Tens of millions of graves and untold suffering forged this link.

While man has been evil since his fall in Eden some six thousand years ago, today with instant communications the malaise seems to be spreading faster across the globe. It is no coincidence Western society's morals have been terminal since the 1960s and its 'free-love' generation. What was sown then is now being reaped in bushels. The 60s planted:

*Baby murder: Whether in or out<sup>47</sup> of the mother's womb it is legal in countries (e.g. U.S.) to kill babies. If they are onic 'fish-stage' in the *Sodomy: For centuries against nature'. A mental illness classified by psychiatrists (pre-Dec, 1973)<sup>48</sup>, this

*Drugs: Under economic laissez-faire and cost-benefit arguments, marijuana is completely legal in four American states [as at April 2015]. What's next?

*Fornication: AshleyMadison.com, super-high divorce rates, non-marriage ('de facto' relationships), internet porn on tap, 'try-before-you-buy' are now flowing in the culture's bloodstream. This has reduced people to pleasure objects for exploitation.

*Sloth: Australian Maths standards have declined significantly since 2003, Science from 2006, Reading 2000 (cf. PISA 2012: How Australia Measures Up, pp. 13, 125, 163, 203-4). Anecdotal evidences of morality decline:

-A 12-year old girl tried to poison her mother with bleach for confiscating her iPhone.<sup>50</sup>

-A mother encouraging her children to swear at home-"it's hilarious"<sup>51</sup>

-A boy stabbed his teacher to death with pride: "I wasn't in shock, I was happy. I had a sense of pride. I still do."<sup>52</sup>
